

Meredith Kercher Murder

In the autumn of 2007 Meredith, like me, was living in Perugia, Italy, studying abroad, making friends, finding herself. She was murdered the night of November 1st while alone in the apartment she and I shared with two Italian young women. The widespread reaction to her murder was appropriately of shock, horror and dismay. The investigation was long and sensational; the trials against the suspects even longer, more sensational and ongoing to this day.