

The image shows the front entrance of a modern building, identified as the School of Law. The building features a prominent white horizontal band across its facade with the words "SCHOOL OF LAW" in large, gold-colored, serif capital letters. Above this band is a large, dark, textured glass panel. Below the band is a series of tall, narrow glass windows. The entrance is flanked by two large, white, cylindrical columns. On either side of the columns, there are white ramps leading up to the entrance. In the foreground, there is a paved walkway leading to the entrance, a green lawn, and two black lampposts with white globe lights. A small outdoor seating area with wooden chairs is visible near the entrance.
