I think the only thing you need to do is pray: pray for what you did in competition with others, pray for Meredith, and especially for the judges who "judged" you. The money your father put in did their job. The justice of men has absolved you, still waiting for Divine justice, it will come sure.

I still don't understand how between him, Knox and Guede only the poor black man was condemned for COMPETITION IN HOMICIDE.

Condemned only him in "COMPETITION", it already makes you laugh like that!

Dear sollecito everyone knows your story so everyone knows it guilty or innocent only you know it ok? You ask for compensation ok!!!! Now I tell you my..... 6 years ago I was riding my bike with a friend of mine, a car coming out of a side road (near Genazzano via Prenestina vecchia) hit me right in the middle of the road and left me on the asphalt, not only did my friend run away and tried to get out of the road but he didn't make it in time to get the license plate. I've been in a wheelchair for 6 years with a prognosis c 2-c3 medullar.... I'm looking forward to the compensation of the victims of the road in the hope that I don't die.... so don't complain especially that your youth has some dark side

1.2 million debts are made by those who claim to have a standard of living above their possibilities, so "badly wanted is never too much". And let's also put "karma", which sometimes seems to work.

Beyond all personal comments and opinions, we are faced with a final judgment of the Supreme Court, the classic tomb sentence that puts an end to all controversy and criticism: whether we Likes it or not the truth of the case is a full acquittal and a full innocence. Point.

The Sollecito has done 4 years as "innocent" so under Italian law he is entitled to compensation for "unjust imprisonment", and it is his right to ask for it. That once again the compensation passes through the assessment of the judiciary whether to recognize it or not ... is another matter!

Putting fingers in the nose is a prerogative of children. The gesture is not very popular, especially when it is done in adulthood. In fact, while the youngest children do not make qualms and look through their nostrils when they feel the need, adults explore the nasal orifice hiding from prying eyes. Putting one's fingers in the nose is not seen favourably by most people, especially if done publicly. There is no certain data, but 99% of people cannot do without at least once a day. Aside from the coarse and crude gesture, is exploring one's nose with fingers really as bad for one's health as some scientists claim? In the opinion of Dr. Erich Voigt, not only does it hurt, but it endangers the physical state of the individual.

The windscreen wiper as well as the arm can be made up of blade support frame, which is the structure that supports the blade, (until 1998 was exclusively formed by various metal elements or plastic material of which the main element was the carrier) or directly from the rubber applied to the arm as from last generation much more effective and durable.

Personal choices, they take charge if we can afford it. At the time the "political" scheming was different and even choosing the good morning was not accidental. Now the bill is all yours.

Some considerations on the sentence of Rudy Guede to "conspiracy to commit murder":

It's true that at the trial against Rudy Guede, the Court found him guilty of "conspiracy to commit murder" and referred several times to Amanda and Raffaele as the correi of the murder. But this should make anyone with a minimum of respect for the law and due process shudder.

1. Amanda and raffaele had not yet been tried.
2. DNA had not yet been analyzed by defense experts or independents
3. Amanda and Raffaele were not defendants:
4. Amanda and Raffaele could not defend themselves from the accusations
5. A/R lawyers were not and could not be present and present an alternative theory of evidence

6. The Court has taken for sacrosanct truth the statements of the prosecution (many of which were later denied),
 7. I have never heard in any country in the world that a court finds two people guilty who are not even charged, have never been tried and deserve the presumption of innocence before any trial against them.
 8. Not even in the worst banana republics would a judge allow himself to condemn people who are not even charged and have no criminal record.

Be thankful for daddy's big money if you managed to get away with it: you are guilty for me and also your little friend and you have been defended by the best lawyers to get out of this story unscathed, also who knows how much money you have given to the only person who is currently in jail and is serving a sentence despite being innocent and who is keeping his mouth shut, in fact he has never proclaimed his innocence and has accepted all this with a strange resignation; in my opinion you dear Raffaele that night you killed Meredith because you were so stoned together with your girlfriend in a murky game of three and the only witness of the story has decided to take the blame in exchange for who knows how much money; I conclude by saying that if you have managed to get away with the Italian justice for now I hope that at least the divine one does not give you any escape.

Victims do not speak while monsters do! It is human militarist nature, even if it has been acquitted, it does not mean that it is innocent, so human bullshit has to be cornered at the ends of the world! The Italian justice is a bizarre absurd justice, after the events of the CSM for how it recommends all friends of friends and that anyone can abuse the power and the role it plays. But what is even more serious in fact who abuses power is often promoted and honest people who fight for the integrity of the country? They will be condemned to suffer hellish punishment in every public institution at the crucifix. The true face of a nation in the eyes of the people and that is in the game, and that the chain of events follows one another as if it had never happened quickly forgotten, because it lives in a chronically ill system where the disease is now in its final stage.

She is out because her lawyer was a certain Giulia Bongiorno, and in those days she also had a certain political influence, let's remember that she was Andreotti's lawyer, the rest of the idea that the murder can not not know, was in a house of a few square meters. Then too many negligence of the Carabinieri, remember that the father was a person known in the village, it reminds me a lot of the Vannini story.

I don't want to get into a controversy with anyone. Nor do I want to lecture on the principle of presumption of innocence or on the meaning of "the fact does not exist" since they are explained not in universities, but in compulsory school. The story of Enzo Tortora has taught nothing apparently. That said, I hope very much that Sollecito does not take a ride here and read the comments of so many of you, because he would recover 10 million and not 1.2 querelendovi i for defamation.

For those who continue to think that Amanda and Raffaele are guilty:

1. Why is there no recording (audio or video) of the interrogations? Keep in mind that both Amanda and Raffaele were intercepted non-stop in the days following the discovery of Meredith's lifeless body (as revealed by pm Mignini). And why did the investigators first say that the recordings were lost, and then that they never existed?

2. Why wasn't Mignini (who was on trial at the time for abuse of office himself) recused?

Mignini was then convicted (for arresting two journalists, Douglas Preston and Mario Spezi for the sole purpose of intimidating them and avoiding further embarrassment). Mignini was then saved by the CSM.

3. Why the hard disks (which would have proved Amanda and Raffaele's alibi) were destroyed during the file copying phase? Not one, THREE hard drives were ruined.

4. Why did the police lie to Amanda, telling her that she was HIV positive, simply to get her to reveal the names of all her lovers, and then discredit her as a "slut"? What does Amanda's sexual relations have to do with the Kercher case?

5. Why wasn't Guede investigated immediately, especially since he had committed almost the exact same theft two weeks earlier (climbing an even higher wall and window) with a kitchen knife in his hand?

6. Why did they take for true the statements of obviously not credible people? (an old lady who could not have heard what he said, and who was obviously confused about the times and dates of the alleged event; a declared heroin addict ("I always use heroin") who described in detail the night before the crime, the night before Halloween, when he saw Amanda, Raffaele and Guede together; to finish, the manager of a supermarket, who first said he saw "a girl buy something", then changed records, saying: "Yes, it was Amanda and she bought something", finally he said that "it was Amanda and she bought some house cleaning products, located in the back of the store)?

7. Why were the crucial interviews conducted around midnight, when Amanda and Raffaele, two twenties in their twenties, were exhausted, confused, numb and willing to say anything to the investigators?

8. Why were more than 10 investigators used in turn to "break down" Amanda and force her to confess?

9. Why did the investigators assume that "see you later," which in English means "goodbye/hello" in a text message sent by Amanda to Lumumba meant "You and I will meet later to kill someone"?

10. The European Court ruled that Amanda's rights were violated when she was questioned without a lawyer and without a competent interpreter. Therefore, the confession was not admitted to the criminal trial. However, in a bizarre turn of events, both criminal and civil trials were held in the same courtroom, simultaneously, in the presence of the same jury. In other words, the same jury was asked to ignore the confession in relation to the criminal case but take it into account in the civil case.

11. How could Amanda, Raffaele and Guede coordinate a murder when according to the investigators themselves, A/R did not have Guede's cell phone number (and vice versa, Guede did not have theirs)? In fact, even the Assize Court rejected the crazy conspiracy thesis. So, how do you explain the murder? In a turn of pure madness, the Assize Court said that A/R were going to the house in via della Pergola and they met Guede by chance. All three went to the cottage together, and while A/R went to make love, Guede was going to talk to Meredith. Then (again according to the Assize Court), while A/R were making love, they heard Guede attacking Meredith. Instead of stopping him and calling the police, the two of them suddenly, without any sensible reason, decided to join him and massacre Meredith, first trying to involve her in an orgy, then stabbing her.

12. Even Guede, in a Skype call intercepted by the police, said "Amanda had nothing to do with it".

13. Why did they insist on trying to find traces of DNA belonging to Amanda and Raffaele, when all the world's experts (including the factory that produces the equipment used in the DNA measurements, Applied Biosystems Inc.) said that there was not enough genetic material on the bra strap to determine who the DNA belonged to? (Under 50 RFU, or Relative Fluorescence Units, the DNA becomes like a grainy film, where you can "identify" the killer, if that's what you're looking for (in a form of apophenia), or you can identify a hundred other people, because they have the same generic and inaccurate features of the "blurred, grainy" image of the video. As I said, the company that uses the most used equipment for these types of tests, ABI has recommended a minimum of 150 RFU (i.e., three times more than used). Many forensic labs have recorded a limit between 50 and 100 RFU, but never below 50, as wanted by the pm in this case in a desperate attempt to find traces of DNA.

14. Why has the Court of Assizes made so many illogical statements in order to accept the prosecution's absurd arguments?

15. Why did Amanda and Raffaele not refuse to talk to the investigators, asking for a lawyer (as did Meredith's other English friends?) Why did Amanda not immediately flee Italy (as did Amanda's English friends?) Why cooperate with the police?

The worst thing about this whole story is that there are a lot of people who, based on three gossip they read in the newspapers, believe they are ready to accuse two innocent kids of being psycho killers.

No wish to inform themselves, to read, to know the cards and the motivations. What's the point?

Just shoot some nonsense on Facebook and feel intelligent. It doesn't matter that the Supreme Court acquitted these two innocent boys.

Then complain that Italy is falling apart.... that journalists are priced, that it's all a conspiracy....
