

A narrow, sunlit street in a European city, likely Rome, with a man in a trench coat and hat standing in the distance. The scene is bathed in warm, golden light, suggesting late afternoon or early morning. The buildings are multi-story with windows and balconies. Two birds are flying in the sky above the street. The overall mood is atmospheric and evocative of a classic crime novel setting.

MICHELE GIUTTARI

'The leading Italian crime writer'

The Times