

It came by accident.

There are so many things you hear about, and see on TV that are sooo horrid that it doesn't seem real because it's on TV. However, by some by bizarre accident it (the Amanda Knox case) has become all too real to us in a freakish bizarre way and a guy named Bruce Fisher. His contacting us is how it started--now we have been given opportunity to get involved (more than we would have ever imagined)--and boy the reality of it all, and the people whose lives have been greatly affected is hard to see in real life. This thing is much huger than one could have imagined. It's almost more than one can bare at times.
